intending document, showing that might be done in other places. Mr. Dumas says:

"It is true the means of action have been limited, the circle of Chinese reached has been small, but that a result fairly proportionate to the efforts made has been attained. I have no doubt whatever. Perhaps only a hundred Chinese have visited the reading room during the year and not more than ten to fifteen have come to it daily, but still these have been shown that foreign countries are to be respected for their literature and science, not merely for their canons and steamers. And I believe that such a result is not paid too dearly for at the rate of $200 per annum, more especially if the Chinese contribute more than half of the expenditure themselves." It is to be hoped the reading room at Shanghai will soon be in active operation; and, in a settlement where the intercourse between foreigners and Chinese is more extended than at Amoy, its sphere of usefulness will be no doubt to greater. But why is Hongkong behind in this matter? The number of natives who visit the City Hall Museum and the support accorded to it by well-to-do Chinese, show that the Chinese are not backward in not to be unappreciated. If the newspapers and periodicals published in Chinese were to be put on the shelves of the City Hall Library, and this portion of the building, like the Museum, given up to the Chinese for a certain portion of every day, readers would be numerous and the good done considerable. The expense would not be large, probably not more than $500 a year, and it is to be hoped there would be no difficulty in raising such a sum. To return to the affairs of the Shanghai Polytechnic. The year's accounts show a deficiency of about 1,000, which has been raised by loan on the security of the property. The house committee have been deterred from rendering much assistance lately by the unsettled state of affairs between the two countries. It was suggested, however, that Mr. Meadows should take an early opportunity of meeting the home committee on his return to England, and it was hoped that Sir Thomas Wade, as well as the Chinese Ambassador, would interest themselves in the welfare and extension of the institution. The Chinese Ambassador had paid a visit to the Polytechnic in company with the Tao-tai of Shanghai, and expressed his entire approval of the scheme, but regretted that the institution had not yet got into more active operation. Very little appears to have been done in the matter of the proposed iron and glass building for an exhibition, the Chinese official who was expected to take measures for obtaining the necessary funds having gone to the southern provinces on business. The applications made in various directions for scientific apparatus have not been so successful as might have been expected, and it has consequently been impossible to do much in the way of lectures. The committee, however, think that by borrowing such apparatus as could be obtained in Shanghai, a few lectures on elementary subjects may be delivered during the present winter. The institution is an excellent one, and deserves support, which it is to be hoped it may receive in the coming year.

Monday next being New Year's Day there will be no issue of the Daily Press on that date.

The Right Rev. the Bishop of Victoria will administer the Holy Communion and give an address to the Chinese on the morning of New Year's Day at eight o'clock in the morning.

A Russian telegram, dated Tashkent, the 11th ultimo, states that the Chinese troops have been ordered to leave the direction of Turkistan. Yakubov Beg, with the forces at his command, is still in Toklam.

In their market report, dated the 24th instant, Messrs. Deane & Co., of Saigon, have advised the rice market—Supplies, both of old and new grain, are scarce and prices in consequence have risen. The market is quiet, although not in much demand. The rice market is quiet, although not in much demand. The rice market is quiet, although not in much demand.

Intelligence has been received by telegraph from the Grand O. Steamer Comanche, on her last trip, under the command of Captain J. A. de Gama, who sailed from Hongkong on the 4th instant, and by cablegram met, having arrived at San Francisco on the 10th instant. The steamer, having left Yokohama at daylight on the 12th, her whole time was exactly twenty-two days, and her steaming time twenty-two days, two having been lost in the straits. The Chinese Polytechnic Institution and Reading Room, held on the 15th instant, are published in the Shanghai papers. Mr. Meadows, in view of his approaching departure from Shanghai, resigned the chairmanship of the committee, and Mr. Meadows was elected to succeed him. The reading room formed a subject of discussion, and it is satisfactory to find that this portion of the scheme of the Polytechnic is to be pressed forward. The N. C. Daily News remarks that it has been laid right of under more pretentious schemes. Mr. Meadows's original proposal was to establish a reading room, where especially translations of instructive foreign literature should be provided; and it will be well if this plan is the only one carried out. Although perhaps not so judicious in its pretensions as other departments, it would be no less influential in imparting a knowledge of foreign science and inventions, as well as literature. The report of the Hongkong Secretary of the Army Reading Room was read at the meeting. This is an
